The invention relates to a modular connection assembly for a steering wheel of a motor vehicle, and also to a steering wheel having a support for such a connection assembly. Such a connection assembly is disclosed in DE 38 14 750 A1. For a hybrid drive, or specifically for a friction brake, the connection assembly includes two mutually spaced support elements, which are connected by way of a central intermediate element. Each support element has a radial shoulder, which matches the radius of the steering wheel, and includes thereon an axial bolt by means of which it is connected to the steering wheel. Since the connection assembly must be able to withstand certain mechanical
